SOCIAL EVENT

Event: Sing for your Supper Date: 4th February 2006

Venue: Fleet Football Club Time: 7:30pm

Contact: Charlotte Walker

Details: If you have got a party piece that you would like to entertain us with, now is the time to do it. So start practising, especially those big concerted numbers with all your pals. It doesn't have to be singing, of course. Tight rope walking, lion taming, trapeze....whatever takes your fancy. Alternatively, just come along and watch the show.

Social Committee Report:

The 'Sing for your Supper' evening in February lived up to all expectations. Worries that it was too close to the previous one proved to be unfounded as all sorts of new acts emerged from the woodwork. Graham entertained us with some of the songs he used to teach the kids at holiday camps (very broad minded the kids must be, these days), we had a particularly powerful rendition from the 'Witches of Eastwick' (some hints here about a future show to perform, perhaps?), the soggy moggies danced provocatively for us (why do I always get a lousy seat?), and all kinds of musical instruments were played, including the watering can, of course. Roger managed to confuse us with a rendition of Albert and Wallis (or Wallace) in the style of Wallace (or Wallis) and Grommitt. As far as I could make out, Albert poked Grommitt, and Wallace (or Wallis) ate some cheese and crackers, or he might have eaten Albert, or possibly both. Peter kept us all in order and even found time to perform a sketch with Lynda. And, of course, there were songs aplenty, too numerous to mention. A great evening. Perhaps next time, we'll ask Fleet Football Club to pay us to perform at their premises.
